Flying with babies just got easier

SkyBaby is a brand new baby travel mattress which will not only be at Harrogate Nursery Fair as one of the BPA’s Innovation Award Finalists, but will be exhibiting for the first time too. The product is designed to make flying with a baby easier and more comfortable for children and parents.

SkyBaby is designed to work with the aeroplane’s infant loop belt, and allows the baby to lie across an adult’s knee in a natural sleeping position. It supports baby’s back and head leaving baby safe, secure, and happy for the flight.

A recent product tester commented: “It worked. It was my fifth trip with my baby girl, and it freed up my arms, which made the flight much more enjoyable. Instead of using my arm as a cushion, the baby was on the comfy bed in my lap with the seat belt strapped around the SkyBaby wings that fold around baby’s tummy. This meant the seat belt didn’t have to touch her clothes either. She seemed to love flying on her new bed. She slept for two and a half hours straight at lunchtime.”

Thermal first

Pourty International Limited, the company behind the bestselling Pourty Easy-to-Potty, is launching at Harrogate the ingenious and stylish 3-in-One Thermal Baby Bottle from Pacific Baby. These are believed to be the first thermal baby bottles on the market in the United Kingdom. They keep liquid warm or cold for up to six hours (4 oz model), or up to ten hours (7 oz model) and are perfect for bottle feeding when out and about when parents don't have access to a recently boiled kettle.

These versatile bottles can convert to a sip cup (suitable from about 9 months) and then to a drink bottle for older children. Parents will be able to keep their child's drinks at the perfect temperature from birth to school.
