

Look out for award-winning products

The Baby Products Association has announced that its 2022 Baby and Nursery Trade Awards (BANTAs) are now open for entry; which is great news for show visitors wanting a heads-up as to what products stand out at the show. These industry trade awards are only open to exhibitors and the judges will pick the winners based a number of criteria including safety, functionality, desirability, and value for money. The highly commended and winning products are those that they feel will appeal most to consumers. Visitors will be able to see certificates denoting these products on the stands from Sunday (16th October) afternoon onwards.

Value and style

With an extensive catalogue of exciting new products miniuno is the brand to watch for all discerning retailers and buyers seeking quality baby ranges at recession-proof prices.

miniuno, developed by long-established Irish company Casa Tomara, is already making ripples in the retail sector with its beautiful range of travel systems, high-chairs, bassinets and cribs – intelligently designed with trending fabrics and styles, yet priced within reach of every new parent's budget.

The Toura TS provides the ultimate in comfort and practicality for baby, yet with all of the fashionable extras aspired to by new parents such as quality fabrics, stylish exposed tubing and leatherette trims. For a slightly higher-end market, the Toura Travel System Special Edition is one to watch with gorgeous special edition fabrics and finishes and includes a 'must-have' co-ordinating matching changing bag.
